From the Community For the Community

My parents, community activists, in San Jose.

At the Our Lady of Guadalupe with Father Soto and my godparents during my baptism.

I was born and raised in San Jose and have spent my life giving back to our community since I was a girl.

FOR SAN JOSE CITY COUNCIL

Getting sworn in to the Franklin-McKinley School District Board

My father and grandparents in front of their home in San Jose.

My family taught me to help others.

Veterans Voices of Santa Clara County meeting. I'm a co-founder.

Together, we can fight for our community.

I grew up in a family that taught me to work hard to help others. A lifelong San Jose resident, I have deep roots and a commitment to our community. My parents, both educators, taught me the importance of standing up for what you believe in, which is why I'm running for City Council.

My experience growing up here is why my passion for public service is so strong. I'm committed to helping build a stronger community for everyone and I'm ready to bring these values with me to the City Council.

- Maya
